

Accelerated Financial Solutions helps raise more than $37,000 for the American Cancer Society

HAMPTON ROADS, VA., September 25, 2009 – Accelerated Financial Solutions (AFS), a Portsmouth, Va., financial services company, helped the American Cancer Society raise over $37,000 at the charity’s 2009 PowerBoating for a Cure event last month in Norfolk, Va.

Hundreds of people attended and participated in PowerBoating for a Cure, which included a kickoff party, Captain’s meeting, powerboating run, and an awards banquet with a live auction, dinner, and dancing. AFS was a major sponsor of the two day fundraiser, the first of its type boating event hosted by the American Cancer Society’s South Atlantic Division.

Almost 60 boats, including a powerboat driven by AFS CEO Josh Tawes, participated in the powerboating run. The boats raced from one marina to another along a course that included stops in Smithfield, Hampton, Virginia Beach, and Norfolk.

Money from the fundraiser will be used to finance research, patient services and community programs for cancer patients and their families, according to Eileen Bunn, Senior Income Manager of the American Cancer Society. “We are so glad we have the support of AFS, and we are determined to make this event even bigger and better next year.”

“Being part of a charity event of this magnitude is extremely heartwarming,” says Tawes. “Our company is quite proud that we are able to help the American Cancer Society in such a positive way.”

“Cancer has personally impacted a number of our employees and their families, so donating our time and money to the American Cancer Society is something we gladly wanted to do,” explains Anthony Stile, Chief Operating Officer for AFS.
